

Pre-high / high risk areas onboard training courses

GAC Protective Solutions

Powered by AKE

wherever you go

These two modules are designed to enable ships officers and crew members to become key decisions makers to focus on risk mitigation and crisis management during pre high and high risk areas as illustrated in the map

Pre high risk area onboard training

The module covers:

- How to harden your ship
- How to conduct surveillance
- How to identify who does what
- How to make good use of guidelines
- How to stay in touch with naval forces
- How to act when under attack
- How to conduct regular drills
- How to identify a citadel
- How to act if hijacked

Course fee and conditions:

- USD 1,250/1 Sea Marshal/Day while onboard
- USD 1,000/1 Sea Marshal/Day for mob/demob
- Plus travel related expenses
- 1 highly professional Sea Marshal to conduct training

High risk area onboard training/participation

The module covers:

- How to harden your ship
- How to conduct surveillance
- How to identify who does what
- How to make good use of guidelines
- How to stay in touch with naval forces
- How to act when under attack
- How to conduct regular drills
- How to identify a citadel
- How to act if hijacked

Course fee and conditions:

- USD 1,250/1 Sea Marshal/Day while onboard
- USD 1,000/1 Sea Marshal/Day for mob/demob
- Plus travel related expenses
- 2 highly professional Sea Marshal to conduct training

Additional information

Training centres:

- Our courses are conducted at Hereford, UK.
- Alternatively, the training can be conducted at the world's most modern maritime training facility in Cork, Ireland, owned and operated by the National Maritime College of Ireland. This 5-year-old USD 100 million facility includes 360 degree bridge simulators, specialised life boat, fire fighting training facilities and a training pool that simulates a range of different weather conditions.
- We are also able to conduct the training at our customers premises anywhere in the world.

Additional services/training:

- Superintendent train the trainer course
- Management training course